

Guess who's coming to dinner?

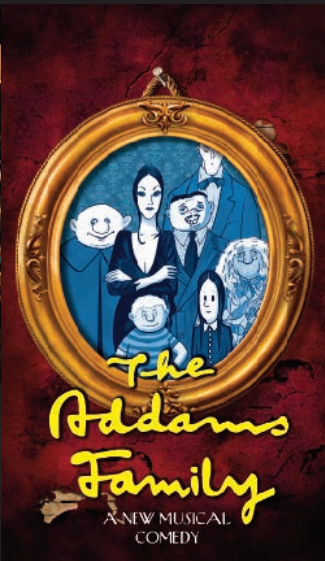

KEVICC students spent many months rehearsing The Addams Family to present a show that really rocks!

The show was selected almost straight after the curtain came down on Grease last year. We liked the comedy of the script; the range of characters and the really catchy songs! Auditions happened almost immediately after the summer holiday and we have been rehearsing 2-3 nights a week since then.

There were over 50 students aged between 11 and 19 years involved in every element of the production, including performing, performance support and the band.

My favourite part of directing the show is seeing the enthusiasm at the start and how it is reflected throughout the show. I am so proud as we have required a lot of them and they have all exceeded expectation.

Like every other KEVICC musical, it's been an experience I'll never forget.
